Nevada's Angry Tree.

In some parts of Nevada is a curious plant called the "Angry Tree." It is a native of Australia, and somewhat resembles the century plant. Its name is due to the apparent vexation at being disturbed. When transplanted each separate leaf stands up in a different direction, like quills on a porcupine or hairs on the tail of an angry cat. At such times it gives forth an unpleasant odor, like that of a rattlesnake when teased, and sometimes it is fully an hour before its leaves resume their natural condition. Another curiosity in the plant world is a peculiar kind of weed which grows in the Arkansas valley. It is shaped like a ball, and varies in size from one foot or less in diameter to five or six feet, some specimens being as tall as a man. When ripe the balls snap off their stems, and go tumbling over the prairies with every gust of wind. They present a very strange appearance, and in the distance hunters have mistaken them for bisons. Often they come bounding along at great rate of speed upon the hunters, who are compelled to crowd upon the ground to escape being hurt.

A Goose Story.

"When I was in Alabama, between Porter's Gap and Millersville," said a gentleman living at Atlanta, "I came to a country place where a man was driving ten or twelve geese from a branch toward a cotton patch. 'For heaven's sake,' said I, 'what is it you have on the necks of those geese?' Those are gourds, full of water. I drive these geese into that cotton patch and keep them there all day weeding out the cotton. There is no water in the cotton patch, and I have to give them water in this way to keep them there. 'But how do they get the water out of those gourds under their necks?' 'They drink out of each other's gourds. Each gourd has an opening in the side so that another gourd can put his bill into the gourd and drink. If you will stay here long enough you will see it yourself.' I waited there half a day to see that performance, and finally I saw it. The geese did just as the man said they would. When a goose got thirsty he walked up to his neighbor and coolly drank out of the gourd on his neck."—Atlanta Journal.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

E. Bainbridge Munday Esq., County Atty., Clay Co., Tex. says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by the timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters.

This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stand unequalled. Price 50c. and $1. at Dr. H. W. Cox's.

The Campaign in Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 24.—The rigid quarantine heretofore existing in this state has seriously interfered with the political campaign in Florida, but now that the fever is abating, more activity is noticed among the democrats who are preparing to make a vigorous canvass. Free Schools for Utah.

ODGEN, Oct. 24.—In addition to other resolutions passed by the Utah Liberal Convention in Park City last Wednesday, one just now reported is to the effect that "We believe that a system of common schools is essential to republican government, and we favor making such schools in this territory, wholly free. We denounce the attempt of the Mormon Church to divert the school funds to the use of private schools." This is hailed as the strong keynote of the Liberal campaign, in which all national partisan differences will be buried.

The Escaped Convict.

STOCKTON, Oct. 24.—Sheriff Cunningham returned from the chase after Sepulveda, the convict who escaped from Folsom prison last Wednesday, taking two horses with him. Cunningham followed the fugitive into Livermore valley, coming up to him just at dark Saturday evening. The sheriff was in a buggy, a young man accompanying him as driver. When Sepulveda was overhauled he was riding one of the stolen animals. Cunningham called on him to stop, but he tried to get away, and the officer shot the horse dead, jumping from the buggy immediately after he shot. The officer's foot caught in some way, and he fell. Sepulveda was on his feet in-
